Australia Travel Declaration

The Australian Government introduced the Australia Travel Declaration for travellers to Australia to help with management of COVID-19. Since 9 December 2020, all travellers (excepting flight crew and foreign diplomats) are expected to complete the Australia Travel Declaration.

The Australia Travel Declaration is a web browser form that collects information from travellers before departure to Australia. The information collected includes their flight details, quarantine requirements (if required), health status and contact details.

What does it look like?

Travellers can access the Australia Travel Declaration through a link provided on the Australia Travel Declaration page <https://covid19.homeaffairs.gov.au/australia-travel-declaration> on the Home Affairs website.

The ATD landing page is

The screenshot shows the Australia Travel Declaration landing page. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Australian Government and Department of Home Affairs logo on the left, and links for PRIVACY NOTICE, CONTACT, and LOGIN on the right. The main heading is "Australia Travel Declaration". Below this, a paragraph explains that the declaration collects contact details, flight details, quarantine requirements, and health status to help manage COVID-19. There are two buttons: "MAKE A NEW DECLARATION" (orange) and "VIEW EXISTING DECLARATIONS" (blue). A "Learn more" link is also present. The background features a stylized world map with a checkmark over Australia. Below the main content, there is a section titled "How does it work" with a sub-heading "Travel declarations explained". This section states that every traveller entering Australia should complete a declaration 72 hours before travel, and that the service is operated by SITA on behalf of the Australian Government. At the bottom of this section is another "MAKE A NEW DECLARATION" button. The footer includes the Australian Government and Department of Home Affairs logo.

The bottom of the page has additional information about making your Australia Travel Declaration

Within the landing page, the traveller can access the privacy notice, contact information and commence their declaration. After logging in, the first screen requests the traveller provide personal and trip details.

Step 4

The screenshot shows the 'Step 4 - Summary' page of the Australia Travel Declaration process. At the top, there's a navigation bar with the Australian Government logo, 'Department of Home Affairs', and links for 'PRIVACY NOTICE', 'CONTACT', 'Heath', and 'SIGNOUT'. Below this is a progress bar with five steps: 1. Your Details, 2. Journey Details, 3. Questionnaire, 4. Summary (current step), and 5. Declaration. The main content area is titled 'Step 4 - Summary' and includes a warning: 'Please review your details below before submitting your declaration. You can edit your details by selecting the 'Edit' button to the right of each section or by using the progress steps above. Important - This declaration is only valid for the person named and travelling on the journey specified below.' Below this is a section for '1. Your Details' with an 'Edit' button. The details are as follows:

Given Name(s)	Family Name	Nationality
Tai	Macdonald	Afghan
Date of Birth	Gender	Travel Document Number
01/10/2000	Male	n98797987987
Issuing Country / State	Date of Issue	Date of Expiry

In the final step, the traveller reviews their declaration details and consents to an important notice about privacy.

The screenshot shows a 'Declaration' box with a checkbox and the text: 'By ticking this box I have provided my consent and declaration to the matters explained in the Important Notice.*'. Below the checkbox are two buttons: 'SUBMIT' and 'CANCEL'.

Once the traveller has completed their travel declaration, they will receive an email that acknowledges the submission of their declaration. Information on their declaration will also be stored in their account for later retrieval. The completed Australia Travel Declaration (email and online) includes a risk status that airlines can use to identify travellers eligible for green zone flights.

There are three possible categories for travellers:

- Green, (also displays with a tick) - The answers provided by the traveller indicate they are travelling from a safe zone and are eligible for a quarantine free flight. The message for a green status is shown below.

A green box with a checkmark icon and the text: 'Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed'. Below this is a paragraph: 'Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed as meeting the criteria for a quarantine-free flight providing your health status does not change. If your health status does change, you should reconsider your need to travel until you are well again. Please print or download this email and store it safely for use when requested on your day of travel.'

- Blue, (also displays with an hourglass) - The answers provided by the traveller indicate they have not been in a safe zone for 14 days or more and have not indicated they have COVID-19 symptoms nor have they been in contact with a COVID-19 positive case. They are therefore not eligible for a quarantine-free flight. The message for a blue status is shown below.

Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed

Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed and does not meet the criteria for a quarantine-free flight. If your health status changes, you should reconsider your need to travel until you are well again.

Be aware that you may be subject to quarantine on arrival in Australia. Please print or download this email and store it safely for use when requested on your day of travel.

- Red, (also displays with a cross) - The answers provided by the traveller indicate they :
  - currently have COVID-19 symptoms
  - have been associated with a person experiencing COVID-19 symptoms
  - have been in an area of concern in the New Zealand safe travel zone
  - replied no when asked to acknowledge the need to have a negative COVID-19 test result to travel to Australia.
  - have been in India within the last 14 days

They may be eligible for a mandatory quarantine flight, but the COVID-19 risks may result in the denial of uplift. The message for a red status is shown below.

Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed

Your health status may present a risk to public health. You should not travel until you are well. If you try to board your flight, you may be denied boarding by your airline. Please contact your airline or other travel operator about your travel arrangements.

Be aware that you will be subject to quarantine on arrival in Australia. Please print or download this email and store it safely for use when requested on your day of travel.
