Australia Travel Declaration

The Australian Government introduced the Australia Travel Declaration for travellers to Australia to help with management of COVID-19. Since 9 December 2020, all travellers (excepting flight crew and foreign diplomats) are expected to complete the Australia Travel Declaration.

The Australia Travel Declaration is a web browser form that collects information from travellers before departure to Australia. The information collected includes their flight details, quarantine requirements (if required), health status and contact details.

What does it look like?

Travellers can access the Australia Travel Declaration through a link provided on the Australia Travel Declaration page https://covid19.homeaffairs.gov.au/australia-travel-declaration on the Home Affairs website.

Once the traveller has completed their travel declaration, they will receive an email that acknowledges the submission of their declaration. Information on their declaration will also be stored in their account for later retrieval. The completed Australia Travel Declaration (email and online) includes a risk status that airlines can use to identify travellers eligible for green zone flights.

There are three possible categories for travellers:

• Green, (also displays with a tick) - The answers provided by the traveller indicate they are travelling from a safe zone and are eligible for a quarantine free flight. The message for a green status is shown below.

Ø	Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed
	Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed as meeting the criteria for a quarantine-free flight providing your health status does not change. If your health status does change, you should reconsider your need to travel until you are well again. Please print or download this email and store it safely for use when requested on your day of travel.

 Blue, (also displays with an hourglass) - The answers provided by the traveller indicate they have not been in a safe zone for 14 days or more and have not indicated they have COVID-19 symptoms nor have they been in contact with a COVID-19 positive case. They are therefore not eligible for a quarantine-free flight. The message for a blue status is shown below.

Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed

Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed and does not meet the criteria for a quarantine-free flight. If your health status changes, you should reconsider your need to travel until you are well again.

Be aware that you may be subject to quarantine on arrival in Australia. Please print or download this email and store it safely for use when requested on your day of travel.

- Red, (also displays with a cross) The answers provided by the traveller indicate they :
  - o currently have COVID-19 symptoms
  - o have been associated with a person experiencing COVID-19 symptoms
  - o have been in an area of concern in the New Zealand safe travel zone
  - replied no when asked to acknowledge the need to have a negative COVID-19 test result to travel to Australia.

They may be eligible for a mandatory quarantine flight, but the COVID-19 risks may result in the denial of uplift. The message for a red status is shown below.

Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed

Your health status may present a risk to public health. You should not travel until you are well. If you try to board your flight, you may be denied boarding by your airline. Please contact your airline or other travel operator about your travel arrangements.
