Australia Travel Declaration - mobile app

The Australian Government introduced the Australia Travel Declaration for travellers entering Australia to help with the management of COVID-19. Since 9 December 2020, all travellers (excepting flight crew, people on military flights, people arriving by sea and foreign diplomats) are expected to complete the Australia Travel Declaration.

To assist travellers with completing the declaration, a mobile app is being introduced. The app takes advantage of technology and useability features that mobile devices provide to improve the experience for travellers.

What does it look like?

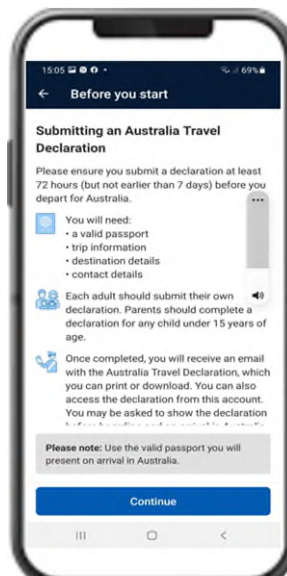

Travellers can download the Australia Travel Declaration app free, from the App Store (Apple) or Google Play store (Android)

While the ATD app is very similar to the Australia Travel Declaration web form, there are some differences.

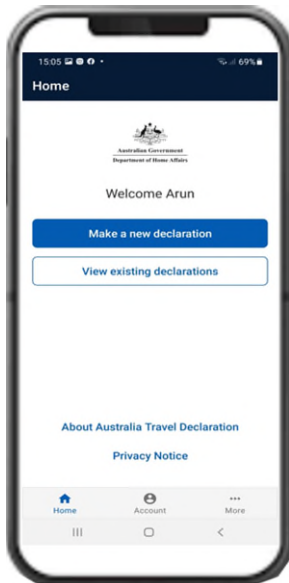

Most of the differences are associated with the layout that a mobile device offers, however there are other features, including:

- Optional use of mobile device security features to open the travellers' Australia Travel Declaration account.
- The personal details section of the travel declaration to be uploaded by scanning the traveller's passport.
- A partially completed travel declaration to be saved and returned to at a later time for completion and subsequent submission.

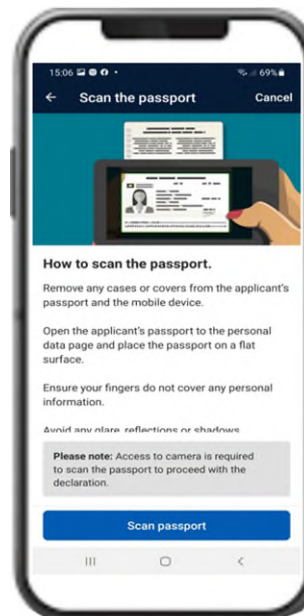

The opening screen and landing page of the ATD app are shown below

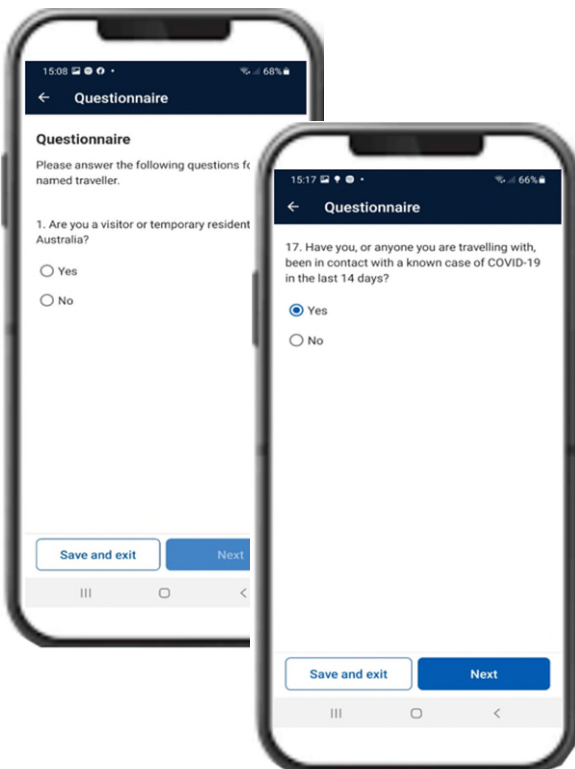

As flagged, the same functions (as per the web version) are available on the app, just in a different layout. The home screen provides access to the key functions.

Within the home screen, the traveller can access the privacy notice, contact information, manage their account, view previous declarations or commence a new declaration

New functions like the scan passport function to upload a traveller's personal details, and guidance on how to complete the process.

The questions are displayed in a mobile friendly manner

Once the traveller has completed their declaration, they will receive an email that acknowledges the submission of their declaration and the assessed risk outcome status of the traveller. Their declaration will also be stored in their account for later retrieval. The completed Australia Travel Declaration risk outcome status may be used by airlines to identify travellers' eligibility for green zone flights.

There are three possible categories for travellers:

- Green, (also displays with a tick) - The answers provided by the traveller indicate they meet the current entry requirements for quarantine-free or home quarantine status. The message for a green status is shown below.

Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed

Your Australia Travel Declaration has been assessed as meeting the criteria for:

- quarantine-free as permitted by arrival jurisdiction
- pre-approved home quarantine

Please print or download this email and store it safely for use when requested on your day of travel.

- Blue, (also displays with an hourglass) - The answers provided by the traveller indicate they do not meet the criteria for quarantine-free or home quarantine status. They will need to quarantine when they arrive in Australia. The message for a blue status is shown below.
